

Sick and Getting Sicker: the U.S. health care system

Every year, thousands more families face the giant healthcare corporations without insurance. The choice between paying rent, buying medicine or eating has become a fact of life for millions. Services at our community hospitals have been cut drastically or even closed—putting people out of work and threatening the lives of patients.

This public forum will bring together healthcare workers and activists fighting for a health system based on people not the drug companies. Join us.
